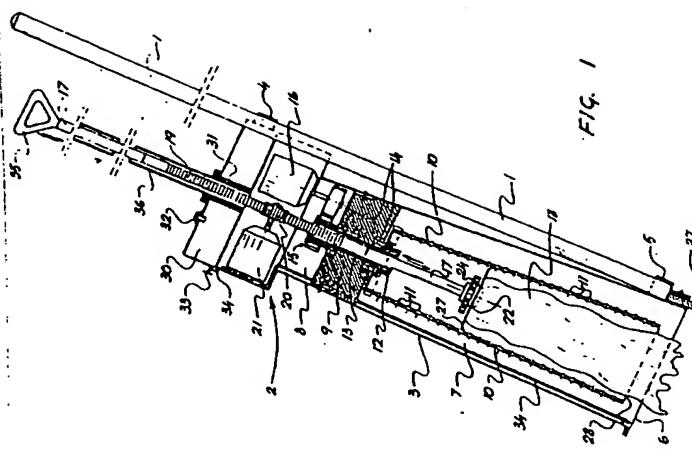

FIG. 1

(5) The apparatus consists of a stick (1) supporting a box-shaped structure (2) forming a container (3) in which a rotating basket (10) provided with holes is housed; the basket (10) is actuated by a first motor means (16) and houses an axially slideable rod (17) rotatably supporting a floor-cloth (18) and driven in the two senses by a second motor means (21) so that the floor-cloth attached thereto is moved between two end positions, that is a position in which it is completely inside the basket (10) and a position in which it is completely withdrawn therefrom, said floor-cloth (18) being rotated by the action of the basket (10) not only when it has to be wringed but also when it has to be stretched out on the floor.
